HAS NO SECRET AGREEMENT WITH GREECE

Germany Not Trying to Influence This Country,
Berlin Reports.

(Special to The Herald)
Berlin, Nov. 23.—Germany has no secret agreement with Greece. Teutonic diplomacy is not to make any effort to combat the threat, promises and pressure being exerted by the Entente powers at Athens. Germany is willing to allow Greece to choose her neutral policy unaided. German newspapers in discussing the question, enlarged on the above points, but at the same time admitted that Greece may be forced into the war by England and France.

GREENLAND ROAD TO CLOSE

Last Cars Will Be Run From
This City on Nov. 30.

The local superintendent of the Portsmouth street railroad received orders today from President Hustis of the Boston & Maine railroad to discontinue the Portsmouth and Greenland line on Nov. 30.

The road, which is owned by the Citizens' Railway Materials Company, gave a lease to the Boston & Maine railroad for five years and this was up on Oct. 30, at which time the railroad stated that they would give up the lease, but President Hustis held up the closing until after he had looked into the matter personally.

The road has not paid expenses since it was opened and of late, with the great number of automobiles, it has been falling behind about $3500
a year.

DEFENDANT STILL ON STAND IN MURDER TRIAL

Subjected to Grilling Cross Examination and Again Breaks Down--Insanity of Mrs. Burns Questioned

At the opening of the eighth day of the Burns murder trial the cross-examination of Mrs. Mary A. Burns, who is charged with the poisoning of her husband, Frank A. Burns at Nottingham on December 22, 1914 was resumed by Judge Ernest L. Gupthill, special counsel for the state.

She told of living in Pittsburg,
New York, Fall River and Webster with Burns. While in New York the witness said she was sick the greater portion of the time. We went to Webster in order that Mr. Burns might get work.

I think after I left Webster and came up home to my sister's Mrs. Gove. He telephoned and a few days later came to my sister's. We went back to Worcester a few days later. He worked at one time at the Danforth Hotel as a stationary engineer and watchman. We boarded awhile and for a time kept house. We got along pleasantly while in Worcester and Webster.

While living with Allen I had several illegal operations performed. I was working and earning $18 a week and it was at the solicitation of my husband that I submitted to the operations as he did not want any children and made it unpleasant for me.

I told Burns once or twice that I intended to commit suicide. Once in Worcester and again at my sister's home.

I had no definite plan as to how I should end my life. I do not recollect having any poison for the purpose.

While at my sister's I made an attempt to commit suicide by taking laudanum. He prevented me. I got some of the poison in my mouth.

I heard Mrs. Neal tell about the man at Laconia who took cyanide and dropped dead. I did not know anything about laudanum as a poison.

Here a box containing laudanum and other medicine was exhibited in court to Mrs. Burns, but she disclaimed the ownership and bringing it to Mrs.
Gove's.

I do not know that I ever saw this bottle of laudanum before, said the witness.

I took hold of the bottle of laudanum down to my brother Harry's but my sister peached over my shoulder and prevented it.

Intended to take it, said the witness.
Q—For what purpose?

A—Everybody was against me.
Everybody talked about me. They right at Mr. Webb's. Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Thompson talked about me.

Q—Did they complain that you didn't keep your room neat?

A—I don't think they did.

Q—What was the trouble up to the Webb's the night of the husking bee?

A—I don't remember.

Q—They asked Mr. Burns to attend the husking bee, but let you stay upstairs? Inquired Judge Gupthill.

A—Yes.

According to the witness Burns had a quart of whiskey that night and slept in the barn.

He could drink a quart of whiskey and not show it.

At 11 o'clock while describing her sickness at Mrs. Neal's at Laconia, Mrs.
Burns again collapsed and the court took a recess.

Fifteen minutes later the cross-examination was resumed.

I put the gin that I bought at Laconia in my grip and took it to Nottingham. I mixed the cyanide with it.
My purpose of getting the poison was for committing suicide.

I do not remember what took place at the McGrills or Shorey drug stores when I attempted to purchase the poison.

When shown the poison book of Chipman's drug store, signed by Miss Alice Howard, Mrs. Burns said that some of the letters looked like her writing but not all.

Q—What kind of a bottle did the poison come in?

A—I don't remember.

Q—What did you do with it?

A—I threw it down the toilet I think.

As near as I can remember I took the poison out of my grip. I think I turned it into the bottle of gin. I could not tell just how much gin there was in the bottle. I mixed it for the purpose of taking it myself.

I mixed it Sunday morning as I thought I would take it while I was home.

As far as I know Mr. Burns never

BIG ITALIAN VICTORY SOON

Fall of Gorizia Will Open Way to Trieste and Pola.

(Special to The Herald)
London, Nov. 23.—The Italian campaign on the Isonzo is nearing complete success. Gorizia's fall is sure and this will open the way to Trieste from whence the Italians can advance on Pavia, the great Austrian naval base.
The greatest triumph won by the Intente powers is now expected to come through the efforts of the Italians.
Dispatches sent from Austrian headquarters on the Italian front and passed by the Austrian censors are that the forces defending the Isonzo are sorely pressed and that the Austrians are outnumbered three to one.

ROCKINGHAM BOUTS FAST AND INTERESTING

Savage and Dugan Went Ten Rounds to a Draw
--Sims won From Harding in Eight Rounds-- Prelim Ended in a Draw.

At the meeting of the Rockingham A strong and his sleep making right A. last evening Young Dugan of the swings did fearful execution.

The Bout.
The first, second and third rounds were just a pretty boxing exhibition rounds the mill was very even and a neither man doing any fast work, mere little slow, but the fourth, fifth and sixth were fast and hard. Savage jabbing Dugan at will, knocking him about the ring and stopping his rushes with his straight left. In the fifth round Savage appeared to have Dugan at his mercy and it seemed as though any moment would be the last, but as clinch. At the break he took two lefts in his bout against Patsy DeLacena and went into a second clinch. Savage some weeks ago, Dugan came back using the kidney punch to advantage.

Fifth round.—Dugan took two straight lefts on the face as he rushed into the center of the ring. The blood starting from his mouth again. For two minutes the two men sparred in the center of the ring when Savage let drive a hard right swing, catching Dugan off his guard. He followed up with his advantage for a moment with right and left to the face and to all appearances Dugan was saved by the bell. Savage's round.

Sixth round.—Dugan came into the ring with all his old time speed and rushed Savage to the ropes. Both men worked easily for the second minute. Savage continuing to use his straight left, Dugan cutting loose with four hard rights to the head, all landing. As the round ended Savage was again at an advantage with his slashing left, forcing Dugan to the ropes and sending him clear across the ring with a right. Savage's round.

Seventh round.—Dugan, with all the speed in the world, surprised his opponent with two hard right swings to the head. Savage countered with a straight left to the face, stopping the rushing. They went into a clinch, both men working with short jabs to the body. At the break Dugan sent three right swings to the head without getting any in return. As Dugan started a fourth swing Savage cut in with one left and an uppercut which shook Dugan, following it up with two body blows. Dugan crossed again with a right, staggering Savage as the bell sounded. Round even.

Eighth round.—Dugan shot left to face, went into clinch. Savage topped Dugan's shoulder with right. Both men exchanged straight lefts. Clinched. On the break they followed with an even exchange. Dugan sent straight left to face and took right to ribs in exchange. Dugan to ropes with left on face. Dugan missed, right swing and stepped into straight left. Savage took right to head and stomach. Dugan was forced to the ropes again. Dugan sent in two hard rights and followed up with straight left to body. Both missed hard right swings. Savage sent hard right to jaw. Clinched till bell. Even break.

Ninth round.—Exchanged right swings to face. Dugan cut loose again and chased Savage about the ring, forcing him to ropes. Dugan missed right swing. Dugan sent right to head, flooring Savage. As Savage regained his feet he was sent almost through the ropes with a hard right as the bell sounded. Dugan's round.

Tenth round.—Dugan and Savage shook hands. Dugan forced the fighting making it fast and hard for the first minute, blows being exchanged about evenly. Savage lead with left to head, taking hard left to body and jaw as they closed in a clinch. At the break both missed wild swings and fell into another clinch. Savage drove his left to the face but was stopped with two rights and a left to the head. From then until the end of the round Dugan did the leading, landing hard telling blows on the head and body, sending in two to one in return. Dugan sent a straight left to the face as the bell ended the bout.

Sims Won Over Harding

In the semi-final bout, Kid Sims of the U. S. M. C., Philadelphia, defeated Young Harding of the U. S. S. Tennessee in an eight round mill. Sims was the better of the two men all the way through, doing most of the leading and getting back out of the way as Harding started his right. Harding put up a good hard, clean fight all the way through but as Sims seemed the more experienced man and was slightly clever he was given the decision. Sims was distinctly the better man in the fourth, fifth, sixth and eighth rounds, the other four rounds being about even.

Prelim a Draw

Young Closkey of the San Francisco and Kid Van Berger of the Southern, went a six round bout to a draw in the preliminary. The bout was fast in all the rounds, both boys working hard and clean, giving an interesting exhibition. Neither man was in the least injured as none of the blows were hard although the action was fast.

On the whole, last evening's meeting was one of the most evenly matched the club has staged this season. There was nothing to find fault about as far as the willingness of the boxers was concerned and the decisions were fair and satisfactory although it was a disappointment to some of the boys to see Harding lose to Sims. Jimmy Quinn of Dover did a satisfactory job as referee, keeping the men working hard and breaking clean in all of the bouts.

DEFENDANT STILL ON STAND IN OWN DEFENSE

didn't he would have to come after my body.

I felt better after what he said, he would do to make things pleasant for me.

I got discouraged spells. After he came back and cheered me up the idea of suicide was forgotten for the time being.

I don't think that I thought of the poison in the grip.

Everything seems hazy and dreamy as to what occurred that day.

My impression is that on the morning of my husband's death, I heard a door shut and immediately afterwards he was at the bed.

It did not occur to me that he had taken the poison until I went to the grip with the $5 that lay on the table.

At this point Mrs. Burns said, "I can't talk any more, and court took a recess until 1.45 this afternoon.

Mrs. Burns finished her cross-examination at 2.15 and walked back to her seat and when she sat down went off into a fit. She was removed from the court house by Doctors Mitchell and Taylor.

Mrs. Mary A. Burns, on trial for the murder of her husband, Frank Burns, in Nottingham on Dec. 22, last, occupied the stand in the Superior Court the entire afternoon of yesterday, her cross examination starting at 3.55 when Judge Ernest L. Guphill asked her his first question. Mrs. Burns took the stand at 11.12 in the morning and from then, with the exception of the two short recesses, she was telling the story of her life, from the time she grew up until the present. A story of the life of a woman, worn down by hard work, disappointments, sorrow, sickness; the memory of the sight of her father as she discovered his lifeless body swinging from a beam in the barn after he had committed suicide; the knowledge that her favorite sister, Emma, had died from poison, self administered; all this she told, and more.

Mrs. Burns made a pathetic figure as she sat in the chair on the witness stand and told in simple language the story of her life. At times she was obliged to stop for a few moments to regain control of herself and some times her story was interrupted by a faller of her memory and was continued only when she was asked questions by Col. Bartlett, her chief counsel. Even then, some of the questions were such that she could answer them only by a nod or a shake of her head.

She told about the money coming from Concord but didn't remember signing for it at Raymond, couldn't remember any details of the funeral nor making funeral arrangements. She said that she didn't remember any of the talk she had with the Sheriff or the County Solicitor on the Sunday she was arrested. She remembered her sister saying something about sending for money and she remembered writing to the bank but didn't know when it was she had written.

Mrs. Burns recalled that Mrs. Gove was her first visitor in the jail and that her mother also came to see her. She told about her having bad spells in jail and that when she was crying Mr. and Mrs. Shaw had come to her and also Mr. Spinyey.

Recalled Stay at Concord She remembered her trip to Concord to the State Hospital and some of the incidents connected with it. She said that she remembered taking a drink out of a bottle of liniment Dr. Herring had given her for rheumatism. That she started for the bathroom and fell on the floor and when she woke up she was on her bed. She said that she did this because she couldn't sleep, the other inmates of the room fighting and yelling and knocking each other down. She said that she was in bed three or four days after that.

She said that she had a fainting spell one day in the dining room when she was helping one of the nurses and fell to the floor burning her arm on a steam pipe. She said that at the hospital she was often given medicine to make her sleep and that they put ice bags on her head and side.

She was asked to tell of any sicknesses she had had and said that she was sick with typhoid fever in New York for a long time. That she was also sick in Worcester and in Webster after she was living with Burns. She said that she had never been well since she was sick in New York.

Attempted Suicide She recalled her attempt at suicide by drinking laudanum at the Gove house in the summer of 1911 and that Mrs. Burns prevented her from drinking it. Asked why she did it she didn't answer. She recalled attempting to take carbolic acid while at Harry Burns' house in Nottingham one Sunday but couldn't tell why she had done it.

Found Father Hanging in Barn Q—Was you living at home when your father died? A—No.

Q—Did you see him after he died? A—Yes.

Q—How soon after he died did you see him? Mrs. Burns couldn't answer and was asked by Col. Bartlett, "Was it before his body was taken down from the barn where it was hanging? She nodded her head "yes."

She told about the suicide of her favorite sister, Emma, and getting a post card from her with the words "Good bye, Mary" on it, the card and the news of her sister's death arriving at Tilton where she was then living at the same time. She told about the marriage of John Currier to her youngest sister Eliza within five or six months after Emma died and her mother going to live with them. On that account, she said she didn't speak to her mother for some years.

Married to Allen Mrs. Burns said that she had married George G. Allen in Gilmanton on Jan. 21, 1895, and that they lived in Belmont, boarding and working in the mill. She said that she underwent seven operations at her husband's orders while she was married to him. She testified to the arrangement for a divorce in September, 1911, in Manchester and that she received $225 for allowing him to get the divorce.

Met Burns in Concord She said she met Burns in Concord when he was working as a fireman or engineer on the railroad, before he was divorced from his wife. That he later told her he had secured a divorce after he had returned from the west. She said that she and Burns were married in Boston by a Justice of the peace in a house on Appleton street in June, 1912, one Sunday. That the Justice's name was Lawrence H. Dunn and that he came in an automobile.

Loaned Money to Burns The following note was introduced after Mrs. Burns had identified it: "March 24, 1914. Within two years I promise to pay to Mary Burns, $500 with interest at 4 per cent as soon as I can earn it. (Signed) Frank Burns."

Never Threatened Burns Asked if she had ever looked up the records to see if she was legally married she said, "No, I never had any reason to do so." Asked if she ever knew that she was not married to Burns, she said, "I never knew it as long as he lived." Asked if she had ever threatened any harm to Burns or ever said she would kill him she said, "I never threatened him. I never had it in my mind to kill him. I had no reason to."

She testified about the strained relations between her and Myra and said that Myra was at odds with most of the family. She said that Myra was unfriendly with any of them who had anything to do with Rose. (Mrs. Gove) She said that while living in Myra's she did go once or twice to see Rose on the way. She testified that she was friendly with all the other members of the family.

Cross Examination Opened At 3.55 p. m. Judge Guphill began his cross examination of Mrs. Burns. During much of her direct examination Mrs. Burns showed signs of collapse, but beyond one or two slight crying spells she was remarkably calm. Judge Guphill asked his question in a kindly manner and an hour and a half later Mrs. Burns was in as good condition if not easier than when he started.

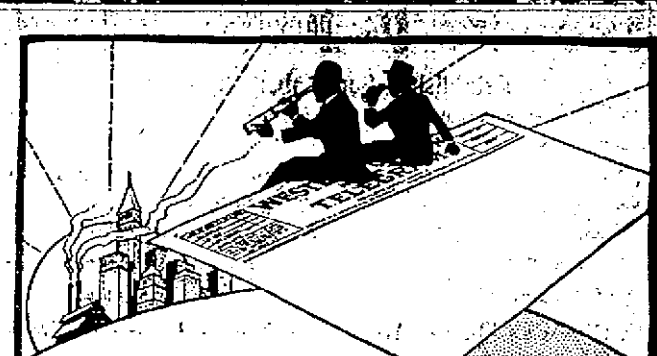

In her cross examination she testified that she didn't visit Bert Manley in Manchester nor did he kiss her at the station as had been stated. She said that she, Myra and Mrs. Morrison went to Manchester to do some shopping, that she did her shopping while they went to the pictures. She said that Manley came into the station while she was there and talked with her, that she had known him in Concord as he and his wife had lived at the same boarding house Allen and she had. She admitted that Mrs. Manley had named her as a co-respondent in her suit for divorce but said that the charge was unfounded.

She said that she never remembered being arrested on a charge of alienation of affections by a sheriff on an accusation by Mrs. Manley although she did go to a lawyer's office in Concord and that she had paid $200 to settle the case, and that her husband was with her at the time. She stated that after leaving Concord she had gone to Mrs. Gove's in Nottingham and that Burns visited her there. In 1912 and that they went to live together in Fitchburg. That they later went to Worcester and then to Webster, and then went to Boston and were married.

She denied that she had ever found Burns with any woman in the engine room of a mill at Worcester. She said that she never told Mrs. Neal of Laconia that she thought her husband was intimate with any woman.

She said that after her return from Laconia she went to Myra's but that Myra couldn't keep her in as she said she wouldn't have Frank living there as "one drunkard was enough in the family" and Mrs. Burns said she told her that Frank didn't drink any more than her own husband did. She said that she was going to Laconia to get work and that she went back there, that after getting to Laconia she didn't try to get any work as she was sick, she said that she stayed a few days with Mrs. Neal as she and Mrs. Neal had always visited each other when they wanted to. She said that she was too sick to think about work and that Mrs. Neal had told her to come back. Court suspended at this point until 10.00 o'clock this morning.

After the close of court Dr. Libby of the Boston City Hospital was introduced to Mrs. Burns. Dr. Libby went into the judge's chamber with Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Shaw and held a consultation with her. He will testify later in the trial.

Governor Whitman Is Right.

Governor Whitman of New York advanced some very sensible ideas in an address delivered a few nights ago before the annual conference of the New York state probation officers at Albany. He was speaking on the subject of probation, and among other things he urged greater discrimination on the part of the courts in releasing prisoners on probation and a closer watchfulness over these men by the probation officers. Governor Whitman is convinced that many probationers flagrantly violate the terms of their probations without, in many cases, being brought to book. This he considers not only wrong in itself, but it is a condition that militates against respect for and obedience to the laws.

The governor took the ground that the best ends are not reached through undue severity in the treatment of criminals, but insisted that the courts should deal firmly with them and demand a strict compliance with the terms of probation in every case. Where this is not done the men placed on probation consider themselves practically free to do as they please. This is demoralizing not only to themselves, but to all of the criminally inclined who are aware of the conditions.

In this address Governor Whitman put his finger on one of the weak spots in the legal machinery of the times. The principle of probation is good, but there is nothing truer than that courts should exercise careful discrimination in granting probations and that probation officers should be careful to see that convicts live up to what may be called their part of the contract. They are under obligation to keep straight during the period of probation, and when they fail to do this the influence is bad, not only upon themselves, but upon all knowing the circumstances.

While the tendency of the present is away from harshness in dealing with violators of the laws, there should be given no ground for the belief that real punishment of law breakers is a thing of the past. For this reason examples should be made of those who violate the terms of their probations, to the end that probation may stand for what it was designed to be instead of being recognized by the public and the criminal classes as more or less of a farce.

The real "meal in the cocoanut" in connection with the discharge of an assistant postmaster in a western state for committing in an uncompromising way on the president's engagement appears to be that his superior was laboring under the conviction that he was his brother's keeper. The haste with which the latter was placed in the position clearly indicates this. But President Wilson was not agreeable to the shuffle and the "patriotism" of the pestiferous postmaster was promptly punctured.

The American Federation of Labor, while not opposed to a reasonable defense of the country, is against the establishment of a large standing army and the policy of militarism. What needs to be done should be done, but there is no occasion for panic or alarm, and it is to be hoped that whatever is done in the way of preparedness will be done with deliberation and not in the heat of unwarranted excitement.

The western woman who believes that cows appreciate gentle treatment and will amply repay it is right, as every intelligent dairyman knows, but when she goes so far as to claim that lace curtains and porcelain feed boxes for the stables will also help, to say nothing of throwing in a little music at milking time, she is talking through a hat that covers small amount of thinking material.

A lot of postoffice clerks in a West Virginia town have quit their jobs in a "sympathetic" strike. If the government does its duty in the matter those men will never quit postoffice jobs again. When the handling of the United States mails is disrupted by striking it is high time to draw the line.

The government finds the bids of private concerns for the construction of two battleships too high and may decide to do the work itself unless the bidders modify their figures. It is apparent that battleship builders believe in preparedness for profits.

A Massachusetts professor claims to have invented an instrument by which it is possible to determine the direction from which a fog signal comes. If his claim is substantiated one of the greatest terrors of navigation will be removed.

Chicago is to try motion pictures in the public schools. There isn't much that Chicago is not ready to try these days, even to a resident policeman in every block.

CURRENT OPINION

Overloading Curriculum Leads to Indifferent Education.

It seems to me that it does not matter so much what we teach as it does to use whatever we teach to train the boy and girl to do very thoroughly and well each thing they undertake. The content of knowledge that can be absorbed at this period in their lives is relatively small at best. But we can teach them how to find truth concerning any subject by teaching them how to find all the truth about one subject.

As English is their mother tongue and as they must use it to express themselves every hour of the day, too much care cannot be given to their instruction in this vital subject.

Above all things, do not overload the curriculum, which only leads to careless, scattered thinking, to the destruction of the powers of concentration and later to indifferent workmanship in whatever is undertaken.—By Russell H. Conwell, President Temple University, Philadelphia.

Navy Yard Bids

The following are the bids submitted by the navy yards for the construction of new battleships authorized by the last Congress:
Navy yard Mare Island, California, class 1, one vessel to be constructed in 31 months, $7,413,166.
Navy yard, New York, class 1, with Parsons turbines, $7,069,923; with electric propelling machinery, $6,987,907; time, 36 months.
Navy yard, Philadelphia, $6,916,427 and $6,774,144; time, 36 months.

More Ships to be Sold

Arrangements are being made by the bureau of supplies and accounts of the navy department for the sale of two ships no longer useful for service. One of these is the naval collier Justin, now on the west coast and shortly to be sent to the Mare Island navy yard. The vessel was built in England and its appraised value is $76,000, representing one of the most valuable of condemned vessels to be sold from the naval list to the highest bidder. It is considered that the repairs necessary to put the Justin into a serviceable condition would cost too much to justify the expenditure and that this is the opportune time to dispose of a vessel of such dimensions and conditions. There is more or less activity in the demand for ships, and the Justin useful craft and not merely as so much junk. The other vessel to be sold is the Onelda, now at Port Royal, S. C. That vessel was built at Bath, Me., and its appraised value is $2,600.

Chance for All

The department has notified the local yard that a representative of all trades will be allowed to appear before the secretary of the navy at Washington in regard to the increase of wages or other matters pertaining to their trades. It is likely that one man will be delegated to represent them all when the hearing is held.

Extra Men From Tennessee

The extra men needed for the post-repair trial of the U. S. S. Tawanna on Monday or Tuesday will be furnished by the commanding officer of the Tennessee. About thirty men will be taken from the vessel.

HOGAN MAKES HIT.

Portsmouth Boy a Favorite in Drama at Manchester.

"The Cross of St. John," a three act drama recently given by the students of St. Anselm's College Dramatic Club at Manchester, was a decided hit.

Francis Hogan of this city was one of the leading characters in the role of "Schulmann," a youth in the employ of Merx.

The Manchester Mirror in its account of the drama has the following regarding the Portsmouth boy:

"Francis Hogan, around whom the plot of the theme was woven, drew rounds of applause from the audience by his remarkable acting. His plea for mercy in the third act was heartrending. The student body always look forward to something out of the ordinary when Hogan assumes the leading role, and last night they were more than satisfied."

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Services Sunday morning and evening in the First Methodist Episcopal church were well attended. In the morning the pastor, Rev. P. J. Scott, begged leave in view of the suffering abroad to waive the usual Thanksgiving sermon that emphasizes material blessings. He spoke instead on "Mourning for Others." In view of many sorrowful facts in the world absolute gaiety is never fitting. The suffering, sin and need of the world call for deep sympathy on our part. The sermon was a noble plea for unselfish feeling, purposing and living.

In the popular Sunday evening service the male quartet furnished appropriate and helpful music. The sermon was entitled: "Natural and Revealed Religion, or the Sun and the Temple," and dealt with the circumstance of the 25 men told of by Ezekiel who turned their backs upon the temple to worship the sun. The temple stood for revealed religion. Natural religion and every religion except the revealed religion of Christianity has proven itself degrading. People today in neglecting the church turn their backs upon the temple to worship the sun in their Sabbath desecrations. The Revealed Religion of Christ and the Church of Christ that stand for it are man's great hope.

The COLONIAL THEATRE

SAFETY AND QUALITY FIRST

Here is a show that we think is the best ever. The acts are so well know in the vaudeville world that they hardly need any introduction.

It does not take a great amount of space to tell about the offerings at the Colonial. They speak for themselves. The thousands of patrons do the advertising.

This is the program for today. Quality first, remember. There is something on this bill that will just capture everywoman and child in Portsmouth. Look it over.

VAUDEVILLE

For Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday

ROSE PITONOFF—The world renowned female swimmer and diver, and her company of diving girl beauties. A wonderful act requiring an immense tank with five feet of water.

WARREN & BROCKWAY—White and black faced comedians. An act that is good enough to play B. F. Keith's New York Palace Theatre and all the big city time. It is full of laughter.

PETE GRIFFIN—Known by all the vaudeville lovers. He is a favorite. He appears for fun purposes only. Singing, talking and dancing.

PICTURES

"THE SHERIFF'S TRAP"—Biograph drama. The scenes are western. Isabel Rea featured.

DISPROVES FINDING OF COURT MARTIAL

Rear Admiral Little Will Not Be Recalled for Trial.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Secretary Daniels disapproved the findings of the general court martial which acquitted Rear Admiral William N. Little, retired, on charges of negligence in connection with his duty as inspector during the construction of the submarine K-2.

No new trial, however will be ordered.

A statement issued by the department said that in view of the expense of further proceedings and the admitted personal and official integrity of Admiral Little the findings merely had been disapproved without reconvening the court.

"An important sidelight upon the attitude of Admiral Little in the performance of his duties as inspector," said the statement, "is shown by the testimony of Lieut. Moses wherein he states that Rear Admiral Little was not easily approachable, and that he, (Moses), was made to feel that his opinions and recommendations would preferably be made to Rear Admiral Little's assistants; this attitude is further more exemplified in Rear Admiral Little's own testimony wherein he refers to Moses' representations concerning the battery as 'kicks' and wherein he states they were 'kicking all the time, about one thing or another.'"

The statement, said the department, deplores this attitude on the part of an officer and continued:

"The court after mature deliberation most fully and honorably acquitted Rear Admiral Little of the charges. The department is unable to concur with the court, or after careful review of the evidence, to ascertain the reasons governing it in its acquittal. In view, however, of the impracticability and expense attending the reconvening of the court, and the fact that Rear Admiral Little is now no longer on inspection duty, and of the improbability of his method being followed by other officers on inspection duty, and in view of his admitted personal and official integrity, the department has disapproved the findings and acquitted without reconvening the court for reconsideration thereof."

Secretary Daniels said his chief reason for disapproving the action was because he wished to impress on older officers the necessity of giving full weight to the recommendation of their juniors.

There will be an unusually large number of family reunions here on not really approachable, and that he, (Moses), was made to feel that his opinions and recommendations would preferably be made to Rear Admiral Little's assistants; this attitude is further more exemplified in Rear Admiral Little's own testimony wherein he refers to Moses' representations concerning the battery as 'kicks' and wherein he states they were 'kicking all the time, about one thing or another.'"

BRINGS SUIT FOR $15,000

George Bush, Former Pugilist of This City, Injured in Car Row.

George Bush, a former resident of this city and a man of much pugilistic fame, recently brought suit against the Boston Elevated Railroad for the sum of $15,000 as the result of a car row on the night of July 11, 1914, on Washington street, Boston.

Bush, while in Portsmouth conducted a gymnasium on Market street where he instructed pupils in the art of boxing. While here he entertained John L. Sullivan, and James J. Corbett, world's champion, besides many other noted principals of the ring.

John L. appeared as one of the principal witnesses for Bush. In the testimony Bush claimed he was assaulted, beaten, bruised and wounded by the motorman and conductor of the car to such an extent that he is still suffering from his injuries.

"What is your name?" Inquired Mr. Bush's lawyer, H. A. Kenney.

"John L. Sullivan," replied the ex-pugilist, now farmer, in a deep voice, matching his adversary.

"Do you know Mr. Bush, the plaintiff in this action?"

"I've known him for 30 years."

"How about his physical condition since July 11, 1914?"

"Well, after this trouble he came to my place in Abington once and visited me for two weeks. He didn't seem as strong as he used to be."

"Before this he used to visit you often?"

"Previous to that he used to come to see me every Sunday."

"You have a farm in Abington?"

"Yes, about seventy acres," replied John L. With pride in his voice.

"What was Mr. Bush's condition when he visited you before the street car incident?"

"He was as good as I am now."

Rubber and Runner

"Was Mr. Bush in your employ when you were engaged in pugilism?"

"For many years; I used to use him as a sort of assistant trainer for rubbing me down and walking and running with me, etc."

Cross examined by F. W. Knowlton, attorney for the Elevated, Mr. Sullivan was asked: "When you were in business the plaintiff in the case, was your sparring partner wasn't he?"

"Yes, a number of times," said John L.

"He was your sparring partner at your training quarters before the Jake Kilrain fight?"

Sparted in the Show

"I wish to correct that," quickly replied the big witness. "I never used him as a sparring partner when I was training for any of my fights. I used him for walking, rubbing me down and other things. When I got through fighting we had a small show on the road and traveled all around the country and in this show he was a sparring partner."

"Was he a good boxer?"

"Yes, he was not what you'd call a champion, but he was very good," responded John L. with a smile.

"Bush and other old friends of yours often come out to see you at your place in Abington, don't they?"

"He and Mr. Hearn used to come out every Sunday. It was a regular thing. I have many other visitors too."

"You are sure Mr. Bush was not your sparring partner when you were in active training?"

"I never had a sparring partner; didn't need any in those days," declared Sullivan.

"I suppose when Bush and other old friends visited you it was the custom to recall old times, tell stories, jokes, etc., but didn't you ever have occasion to question him about his physical condition?"

"No," replied the distinguished witness, who was the last for the plaintiff and he was allowed to go when he concluded. Putting on his overcoat and hat Mr. Sullivan declared he was going to take the first car he could get for his farm in Abington.

FINAL ARGUMENTS TO BE MADE NEXT WEEK

B. & M. Investigation to Be Closed by Public Service
Commissioners.

Concord, Nov. 22.—Chairman Edward S. Niles of the public service commission said today that the arguments by counsel in the investigation of railroad expenditures to influence legislative and public opinion would be made next week or the week following. The date will be fixed definitely after communication with the counsel.

Arguments are to be made by General Solicitor Edgar J. Rich of the Boston and Maine railroad, and De Wit C. Howe, personal counsel for President Benjamin A. Kimball of the Concord and Montreal railroad, and by former Public Service Commissioner J. E. Denton of Keene who conducted the investigation for the commission.

The public service commissioners will attend a hearing before the Massachusetts Public Service Commission on December 11, and Chairman Niles said it is the desire of the New Hampshire commission to have the investigation here closed before that time. When the hearings ended it was the understanding of commission and counsel that the arguments would be made about December 1.

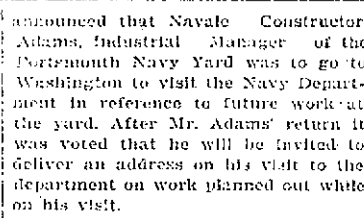

Both Mr. Rich and Mr. Denton announced at the close of the evidence that they would make extended arguments in their summing up and Mr. Howe said he might wish to be heard. It is likely that two days will be taken up in presenting the arguments.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., Nov. 22.—"Domine" has gone home to fight for his country and his king. College cadets coming into the gym for drill, find there a new man sweeping out the halls and caring for the apparatus. "Domine" intends to return, but who knows? In the meanwhile student cadets ponder on the fact that their former janitor was a real soldier, had served in a real army, and is now going back to Italy to take part in a real war. He is going, too, not from necessity, but from a sense of duty.

Domine Catenacci explained just before leaving "I can not neglect this opportunity to serve my country. I prefer to live in America, and I shall return, but now, my country calls."

"Two generations of students have learned to be fond of 'Domine.' He came here as soon as he landed in 1908 and has been employed here ever since. He takes back with him a letter, bearing the college seal, written by the business secretary of the college, testifying to his zeal and to his efficiency.

The Agricultural Club of the college will be addressed tonight in Morrill hall by Andrew L. Pelker, commissioner of agriculture. The club will on this occasion dedicate its new headquarters.

Members of the local chapter of the Chi Omega sorority have just presented the library with several books in much demand by the department of sociology. The gift includes "Child Labor in City Streets," by Clepper, "Tenement House Problems," by DeForest and Veiller, "European Police Systems," by Fosdick, and "Out of Work," by Keller.

New Hampshire College not only offers to teach the young men of the state how to raise crops and build engines and to teach, but it intends they shall know how to dance. Because collegiate dancing seems to be degenerating, C. H. Pettie, Dean of the College, announced a few days ago that classes for girls in dancing would be organized.

Two have been formed, and volunteers called for from the men students to secure partners. Information as to the purpose of the Dean having leaked out, he found a long line waiting at his door when his office opened the next day.

The number of volunteers had been limited to 30, and these rushed in by a mass and promptly signed the roll. In

"Experience" at the Wilbur Theatre
The second successful week of "Experience," the most wonderful play in America, begins at the Wilbur Theatre next Monday night, November 22, and the remarkable popularity of this great drama is shown by the capacity audiences which have filled the Wilbur Theatre every night during the past week of the engagement there and the large demand for seats in advance.

The engagement of "Experience" at the Wilbur is announced for only three weeks more and it is interesting to know that it has been a decade, or ten years since any attraction has played at three or more theatres in as "Experience" has done this year and the sensational success of this modern morality play of today has made new history in Boston theatrically.

The same magnificent production as was given at the Shubert Theatre and the Boston Opera House is seen at the Wilbur Theatre, and the same notable cast of players, while the prices are the same at night and Saturday matinees—60 cents to $1.50; and at the

SHOT HIS SON INSTEAD OF THE DEER

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Nov. 22.—Shot by a bullet from his father's rifle, when both were hunting yesterday, 11-year-old Everett Cass, son of Osman Cass, of East Haven is in a critical condition tonight. Physicians operated today removing one rib, and the lad has a chance for recovery.

Cass and his son started out Sunday morning for deer in the dense woods they separated and the older Cass sighted a deer fired, supposing his sons was miles away. The boy was driving up the deer for his father and received the 30-30 bullet in the chest as the deer bounded away unharmed. The boy's cry told the father what he had done.

Five miles deep in the woods it was hours before they could get help. Cass carried his son, who is a man in size as far as he was able and then covered him with his coat and ran the remaining distance for help. This is the second hunting fatality here. A week ago, 15-year-old William Begold was accidentally shot by his hunting companion.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

When cross, feverish and sick give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half sick, feverish, and sleep or eat naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours, all the constipated, waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 30-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

"The Battle Cry of Peace" at the Majestic

A new production film, large in theme and purpose, and positively sensational in its surprises, has taken possession of the Majestic Theatre, Boston, for a limited season. It is "The Battle Cry of Peace," the remarkable patriotic photo spectacle which for some time past has been crowding the Vitaphone Theatre in New York twice daily. The fourth week at this theatre will be Monday, November 22.

"The Battle Cry of Peace" was written by Commodore Blackton and based on Hudson Maxlin's remarkable book, "Defenseless America." While the picture carries on a national propaganda, urging preparedness for war, the lesson is carried home through a remarkable human story, centered around a New York family and its friends, and showing by actual incident, and with most thrilling climax, what happens to the great metropolis under the attack of an invading army.

THREATS AGAINST EVERY MUNITION PLANT

Germany Makes Threats of What Will Be Done in This Country.

Baltimore, Nov. 22.—Otto Huelow, or Under, the suspected deserter from the converted German cruiser Prinz Eitel Frederick, now interned at Norfolk, declared, "In six months" there will not be a war munitions plant in operation in the United States," according to City Detective Robert Porter who took the man to Norfolk last Friday night.

Buelow who was arrested here last Tuesday had pretended he could not speak English, but Porter said today that he talked in that language with the prisoner on the trip to Norfolk.

According to Porter, Buelow seemed to know the location of all the munition plants of the country. He told the officer that he had been arrested just one day too soon, and that he knew a whole lot but would die before telling it.

Accidents will happen but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. Two sizes, 25c and 50c, at all stores.

ROSE PITONOF HEADS FINE PROGRAM

THREE FIRST CLASS VAUDEVILLE NUMBERS AT THE COLONIAL.

Rose Pitonof, assisted in her great swimming act by the Misses Burley and LaMar, captured the crowded audience at the Colonial Theatre last evening. The offering was far better than any of the similar acts playing Portsmouth to date. Miss Pitonof, in her exhibition of diving and swimming, showed several of her wonderful strokes used on the long swim in Boston Harbor when she made the distance from the Charlestown Bridge to Boston Light, was given a great ovation.

Her two young assistants opened the act with fancy swimming and diving stunts and throughout the number there was a lot of comedy introduced. The act is one of the best of the high class vaudeville attractions booked here and the first number, when Miss Pitonof dives into the big tank while tied fast in a burlap bag, brought the house up standing.

Warren and Brookway proved to be a couple of clever comedy musicians, both vocal and instrumental. They were well received and would get the act over with either their comedy or their music without the aid of the other. There is a novelty offering that will please just as long as they stay here.

Pete Griffin proved to be just the same dandy little entertainer that he always has been. His funny line of talk created many hearty outbursts of laughter and his songs and stories were new, clever and well presented. The entire show is one of quality, one which pleased the audience last evening and will continue to do so today and Wednesday.
